

VOX METROPOLIS School Program

Engaging and Educational Music Workshops and Presentations for Students

A Vox Metropolis workshop will help cover the C1.3 sections of the curriculum by engaging students in the creative process, development, and documentation of their original compositions.

Vox Metropolis will work with you, the teacher, to design content for your class.

Customize your workshop:

- instrumental and vocal coaching • multi-media projects
- breakout sessions • ensemble coaching
- instruction on different instruments • composition
- performance by Vox Metropolis • Q & A session

Experienced in Entire Musical Spectrum and Profession

David Jones, Piano - David has performed across Canada and internationally on both piano and violin in a variety of genres. He has composed scores for many film and TV productions. He has taught piano and violin for over 25 years and understands what teachers are looking for to support their classroom music programs. Kirk Starkey, Cello - Kirk is a Suzuki trained teacher with years of teaching experience from elementary to university and is currently a cello and theory instructor at Mohawk College. He is a composer, record producer and sound artist and can be heard on advertising campaigns and TV productions. Sara Traficante, Flute - Sara is currently a flute instructor at Redeemer University College in Hamilton and is a busy freelance orchestral musician. She specializes in creative team building and ensemble playing with students from elementary school to university.

The enthusiasm and expertise of Vox Metropolis will have a positive and lasting impression on your students.

Please visit www.voxmetropolis.ca for audio and video samplings and more details.
To book Vox Metropolis for your school, please contact The Event Team at theeventteam1@gmail.com or 647.219.0125 (Karen) or 416.720.7345 (Kelly).